Most doors are fitted with a handle on both sides. The reason for this is to not only allow access from either side but to facillitate quiet closure as well. The bunk room doors sound mere like a

According to the journey book, a party of people set off for the Gin Bottle today. They didn't mention what means of transport they were using. A quick check shows that all the vehicles and dogs are still here. They were due back @ 1600hrs but haven't signed ~~ex~~ back. Should we set up a search party assuming that they went on feet. No one of the last 3 entries in the journey book has been complete. Apart from ~~this~~ ^{the above} one missed the date and the other failed to state the destination. There's no point in carrying the Royal Infirmary on your back if you fail to observe the simpler forms of common sence.

Five new entries in the last fortnight. The Delphonics re-release a soft Tamla-Motown record which came in at 20 but only moves up one place while a re-release of Elvis Presleys first record - 'Heartbreak Hotel' drops down one place from last week. The other new entry of last week, by Slade, -stays at the same position. This record is an old song originally done by Little Richard. Good old Rock-an'-Roll.

This week sees another entry from Dawn, the American soft rock group, coming in at number 13, but the most interesting entry is from Buffy St. Marie. She has had many songs in the past recorded by others - most notably 'Universal Soldier' by Donovan by has her first hit in her own right with 'Soldier Blue'. Apologies, there was in fact another new record, the best of the lot, ~~xxxxxx~~ by Family. This could be a

THE GRADUAL REMOVAL OF BASE TO THE GIN-BOTTLE 1971.

To be sung to the tune of the International, with ruptured tonsils.

Old MacDonald had some rumples,
E I E I O.
And in these rumples were some holes,
E I E I O.
With a hole-hole here, and a hole-hole there,
Here a hole, there a hole,
Up your fucking arse'ole,
EIEIO.

Now down one hole was dropped a tape,
E I E I O.
With a tape-tape here, and a tape-tape there,
There a tape, where a tape ?
Down a bloody hole a tape
E I E I O.

BLACK Mark Vallance, back on base,
E I E I O,
Took command with utmost haste,
E I E I O.
With a haste-haste here, and a speed-speed there,
Here a haste, there a speed,
More haste, less speed,
E I E I O.

Did the gash on Friday night,

With a Mark-Mark here, and a Rick-Rick there,
Where a Mark, Where a Rick, where a Tone ?
WHERE THE HELL IS EVERYONE ???
E I E I O.

So off they went, hearts filled with hope,

Etc....

"Is she sleeping?" asked the first voice.

"She sleeps."

"Good we can begin. What shall we have tonight? Violence? Love? War? All three?"

"Let's do something different. What about a full mind epic. We haven't had one of these for ages. Let's see; we could start pleasantly enough, then throw in some quick flashbacks - always good for a laugh - and then ~~xxxxxxx~~ carry on up the the frightening climax. The old strange-but-familiar routine. And then....."

"All in technicolour of course?"

"Oh, most certainly. We'll give her the works this time. Now where was I, ah yes, the big finish and then at last the blessed release. She wakes up screaming."

"Screaming? That's a bit passé don't you think. It's old hat. Besides we must not forget that memo from headquarters - 'The personality must not be frightened to the point of waking' etc. The censors have been clamping down recently. We don't want to get the blue pencil now do we?"

"Ok, Ok, I've read it as well. But if you have any better ideas let's have them. What do you suggest?"

"I like the plot. You know you're the best ideas man in the business even if you do get a little carried away at times. But it's the finale we need to change. She's had some memorable dreams in the past so this time shouldn't be too difficult. I reckon we want a bit of good old romance, with a Freudian angle thrown in."

"Oh good grief. Not Freud again. Ever since that man studied our methods you have been quoting him non stop. I can remember when you would have laughed at him. Some of your creations have been classics but you have to keep up with the times."

"Don't give me that. I'll bet you were behind that little sex epic headquarters had to veto a while back. Caused quite a stir did that. We're not going to have filth mixed up in my dreams. I'll have you know I run a respectable service, non of this modern permissive stuff. Of course I blame the continentals for it. We never had any trouble before until they started flooding the market with third rate cheap budget dreams."

"Here we go."

"Don't be impertinent. All the pride has gone out of the industry. Shoddy workmanship, no quality, and as for the colour-terrible. I could get hold of half a dozen ready made cheap sequences that I wouldn't inflict on my worst enemy. No we have our reputation to think about. We will not be known as purveyors of cheap filth."

"O.K. I'm convinced. Nothing crude. But I still don't see what you have against modern material. They are not all bad you know. Some of these avant-garde ones are quite artistic."

"They have the facilities. We don't"

"True. True. But you have to admit they turn out some good stuff. I had a preview the other day of some of next seasons material and it was most impressive. WE will have to be careful or we will be losing customers. Their crowd sequences are magnificent in detail and they make clever use of colour. I saw one magnificent sequence - a slow motion fall through coloured mist-beautiful stuff-absolutely stunning. In full stereophonic sound too. ~~WE~~ Why don't we try something like that?"

"Whats wrong with what we have done in the past?"

"Nothing, absolutely nothing, but that is just it. We have to advance, try new techniques. Are you listening?"

"What? Oh yes, yes. I'll think about it something. Now stop all that chattering. We've got work to do. If we waste any more time we will have to show a repeat."

"O.K. Roll 'em."

DOGGYFRONT

With luck the dogs should be coming out of the dog tunnel some time in the coming week. Before they do the last three span wires have got to be fixed and 54 chains have got to be ~~re-shackled~~ re-shackled to the span wires, a cold job for fingers so if any one has a bit of spare time next week a hand fixing the chains on would be welcomed. I can't see much point in measuring the dogs but they will be weighed when they come out. Last year the dogs were down the tunnel for 105 days; to date this year they've been down 78 days.

anyway I'd like to take this opportunity of thanking everyone for doing my work for me and giving me unlimited opportunities for gonking through the winter. However it's a credit to the Base as a whole to see how clean the dogs and the tunnel are. The dogs are in first class health and the only balls up was my fault entirely, the dogs were slightly over-fed for their period underground. The dinner sizes should have been reduced a little because they do not get exercised and require very little feed to keep themselves warm, ie their maintenance ration is less in the tunnel than it is on the surface.

The shaft top? Act of God.

Another pain job for willing volunteers is the cargo sledges. The sooner they're done the sooner jellies will be going ~~skitt~~ off. Mark and I both agree that short 2, 3, or 4 day training runs are better than odd day trips from base, but whatever training run is on it's pointless to burn round with an empty sledge so the sledges will be loaded with tents feed and fuel.

another personal mean of mine is harnesses. Each dog should have his own harness which must fit him, if it doesn't fit, alter it till it does.

Evie is due to pup on Friday and April is being married to ~~Kenix~~ Pippin so she'll be due mid October.

I have two ambitions that I will only do provided help is forthcoming. To help the two G.A.s coming in, I'd like to see the pup tunnel kept in as good a condition as it is at present, instead of leaving them an ice grotto to excavate, and I'd like to see the dog tunnel as near fit for next winter as possible. With these two bug bears out of the way, they'll only have the seal to cut and have more time to run the men. News about it?

As soon as the temps moderate I hope to have a mini attack on the seal and cut as many dinners as pos, enough with luck to see you past relief, but the more the dogs are run the less dinners will be gobbled.

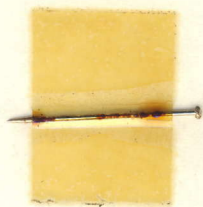

Today is the last day of the dog market.

EMERGENCY DEVICE - NO. 2 (MARK V)

USE FINDING MAGNETS IN CREVASSED REGIONS.

TO USE DANGLE DEVICE ON END OF PIECE OF THREAD (CAREFUL) WHEN ELEMENTARY INSTRUCTIONS REGARDING USE OF MAGNETS HAS BEEN IGNORED. THE PATENT SENSING DEVICE WILL BE AUTOMATICALLY ATTRACTED TO ANY MAGNETISED OBJECT WHICH WILL PROBABLY BE FOUND CLINGING TO OTHER METAL OBJECTS e.g. METAL TAPES. THUS ONE OBTAINS FIX ON OBJECT SOUGHT.

THE PROBLEM OF RECOVERY IS THEN REDUCED TO ONE OF REMOVAL. THIS REQUIRES FURTHER DEVICES MANUFACTURED BY G. BENNETT WHICH ARE AVAILABLE ON REQUEST.
