AN ODE, PERHAPS.

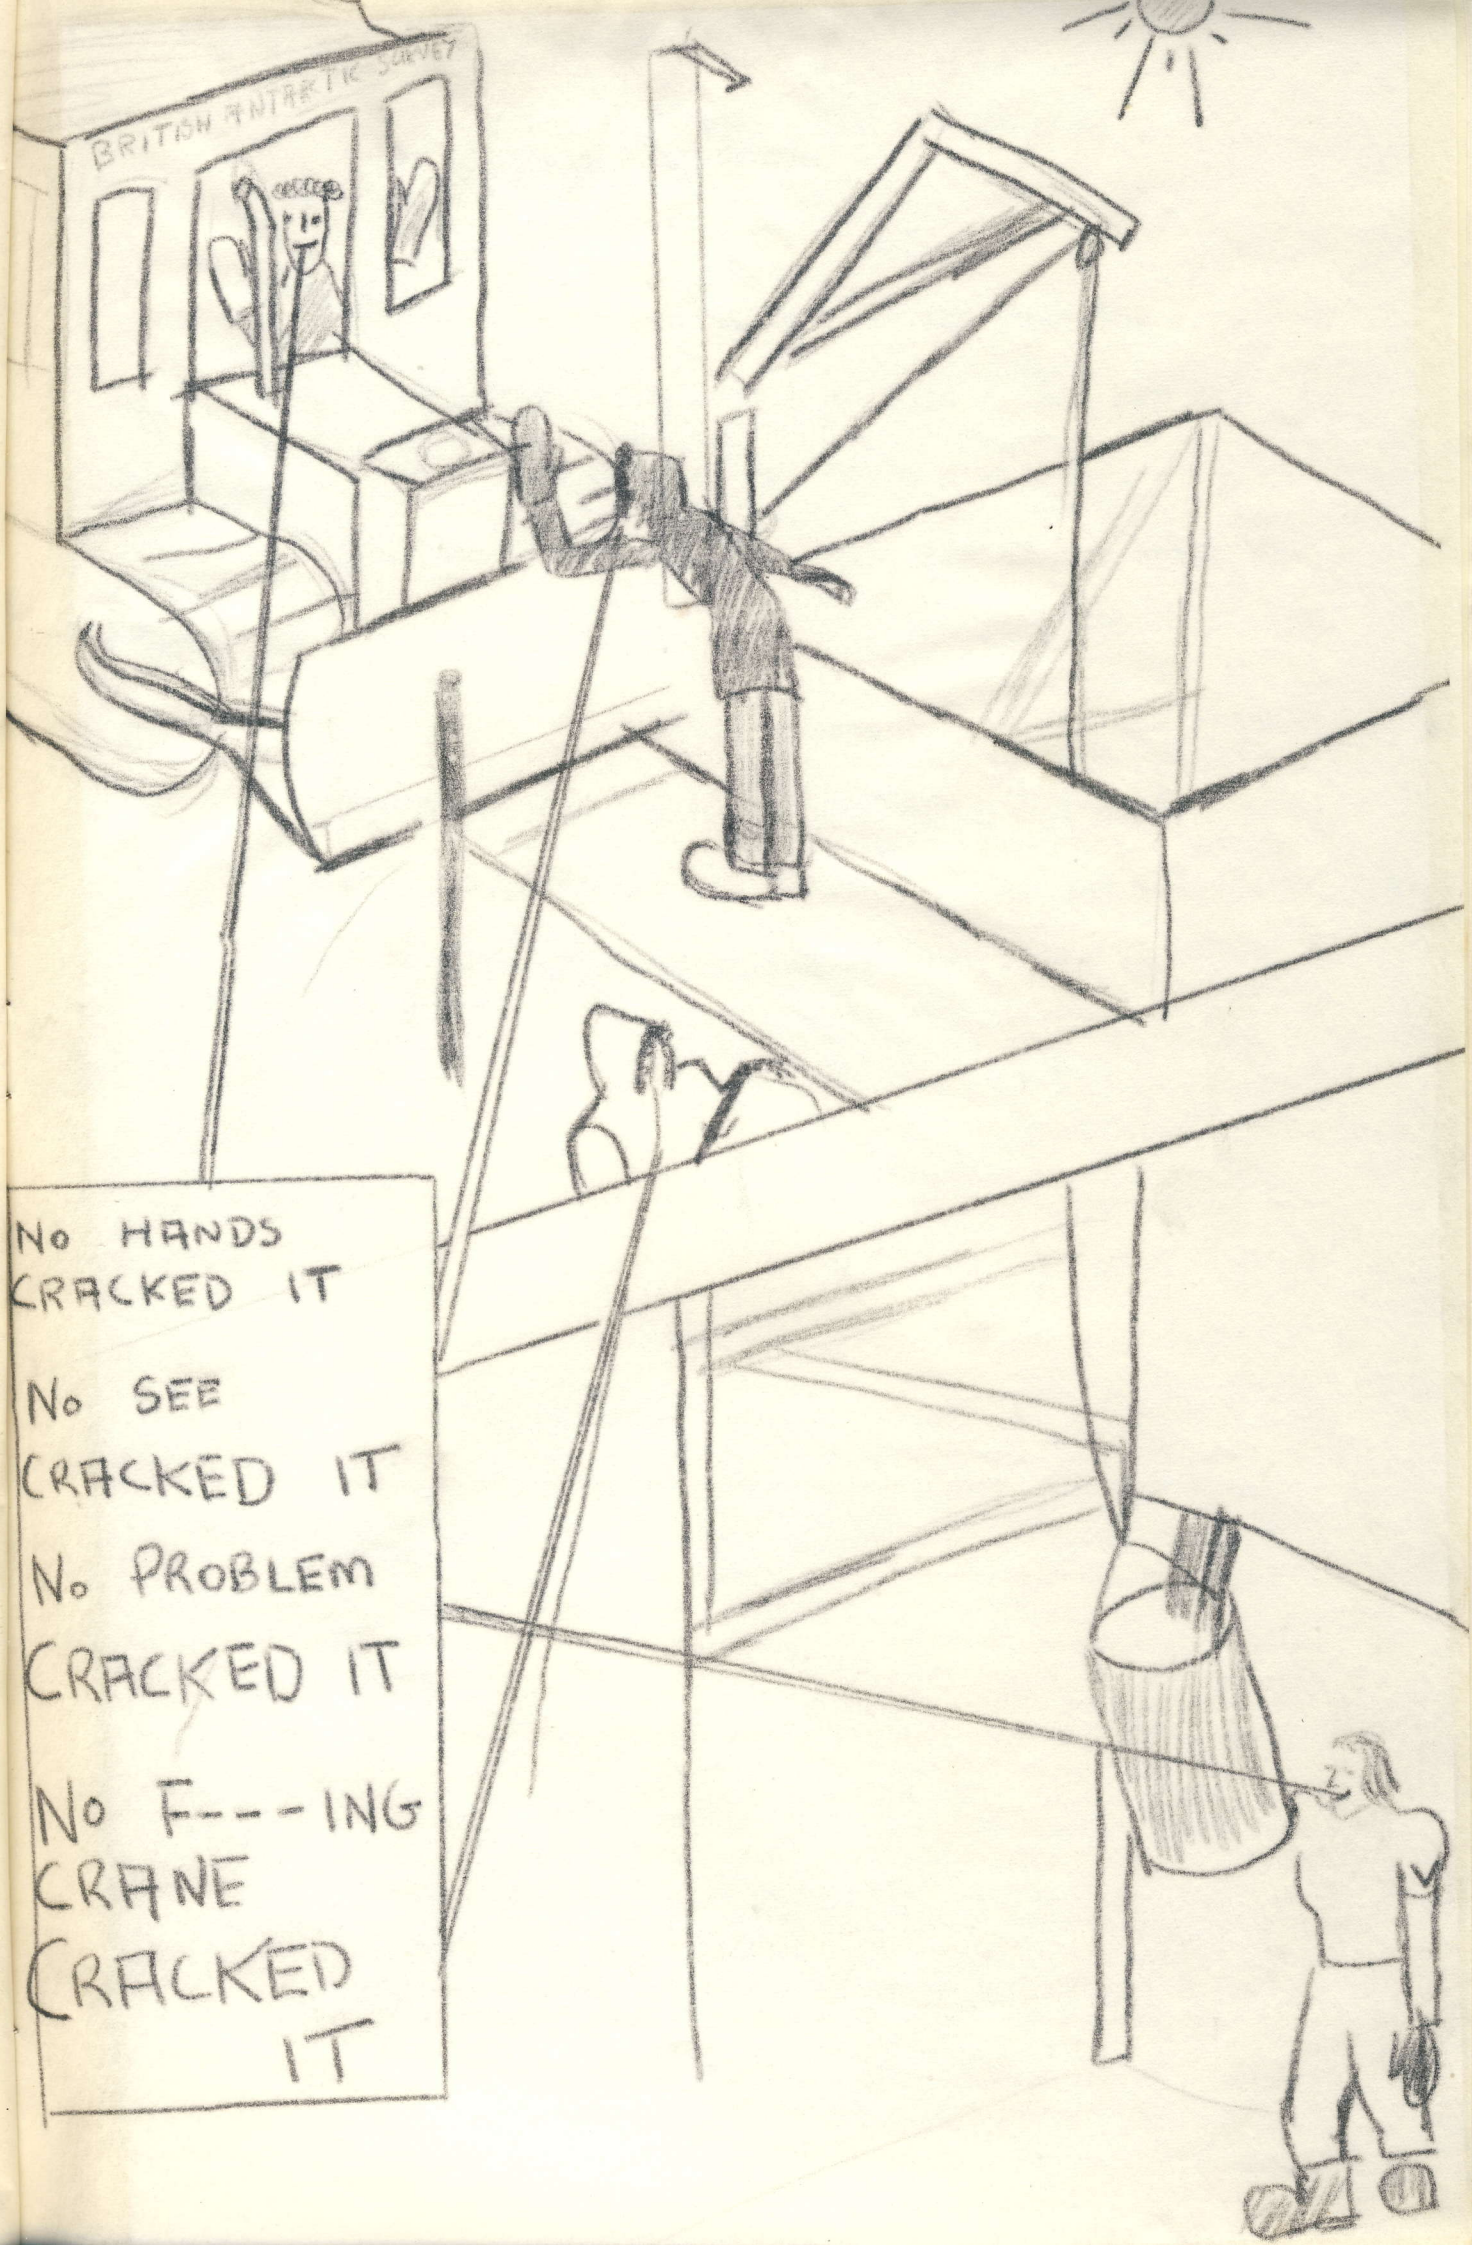

Oh to be at Halley Bay now that spring is here
With the tingle of adventures new, and just a trace of fear.
The sun is up, our blood is too.
The only thing that worries us is what the hell to do.

Go South young man and blaze a trail,
But to the mountains is another tale.
Crossroads? Much too far; can't be done.
We had in mind perhaps 01.

The men and transport you couldn't beat,
and an unknown continent at your feet,
We'll push back the frontiers of science yet.
But for explorers danger-seeking try russian roulette.

If you think we misled you,
What else was there ~~that~~ we could do?
Chaps of your calibre are far too few.
Christ, National prestige really needs you.

HALLEY BAY FEVER

I must go down to Mobster again, to hear the penguins cry,
And all I ask is a long pole, and a penguin to hit her by,
And a dark look on Mark's face, and Bob's a'shaking,
And a grey grin on Gilbert's face, and a bit of law breaking.

I must go down to the Gin Bottle again, to look at the grounded ice,
And all I ask is a steel tape, some magnets and a rope,
And stand on the edge of the ice shelf and hear the shitehawks cry,
And wave to the rest of base, as Halley Bay floats by.

AT the top Diana Ross reigns supreme-ha ha-without the Supremes. Dawn continue to raise nausea, at number 3 now, and look like crawling all the way to 1. Family unfortunately seem to have shot their bolt at no. 5 with their biggest hit ever, but their uncom promising sound is certainly proving popular. You either love 'em or hate 'em. In one great bound Reggae storms from 17 to 6 with a deeply significant title 'Let Your Yeah be Yeah' from the Pioneers. The philosophical discussions left abegging by this statement must obviously be left to another time and place.

George Harrison joins St. Cecilia with the distinction of also being banned by the Beeb, for reasons known only to God and others lucky enough to have heard these records. American Curtis Mayfield enters at no. 12 with a good fast moving record and Carol King returns after years of silence to take over 15. The older hands amongst you may remember her other one and only record 'It might as Well Rain until September' if you cast your minds back. A copy of that disc is on base but it ~~ix~~ was obviously so good that some body tried to eat it since the A side had been spread with syrup.

Several ~~xxx~~ years ago, from the Emerald Isle, a laddy named Gilbert something or other came to Britain to write and record songs under the name 'Gilbert'. They laughed at him, or so the story goes, until he was signed by a big record manager, placed in a bungalow in Weighbridge's stockbroker belt, and then let loose ~~xx~~ on an unsuspecting world. This week he enters the hit-parade at number 20.
